New webcast format for MRAM

You can access the MRAM meeting live, using your web browser to view and hear the meeting content. The link will be available on the MRAM website before each meeting. This technical functionality is currently used for the Faculty Brown Bag series with great success.

Access to the meeting page is available on the date of the meeting (not before).

Easy steps: Go to the MRAM webpage, click on “MRAM Meetings in 2012” and then click on the specific meeting date.

The meeting page will have a link to the webcast. http://uofw.adobeconnect.com/newmram/

- The URL may be different for each meeting, so use the MRAM website when logging on
- Sign in as a guest (no password is needed)
- You will be asked to sign in (fill in the blank); it would be helpful if you entered your full name and if there are others in your party (i.e. Jane Smith +2, Psychology)
- Webcast interface will open to display the PowerPoint, show the speaker in the top left corner of your monitor and a chat feature in the bottom left for questions
- Sound will come from the website – no need to dial in on your phone!
- If you have a question, just use the chat feature & type it in, and the moderator will ask the question on your behalf.

Some units may choose to schedule their conference room so that several people can view the meeting together.

The “live” meeting has been moved to a much smaller room for the rest of 2012. You may join us in the UW Tower Visitor’s Dining Room located on the Mezzanine Level.

After each meeting an archive of the webcast will be posted to the MRAM website, where you can view it at any time.

Join us virtually by webcast (similar to YouTube)!
